Since 1999 club masters teams from throughout the country have been playing for The AD Long Cup, named in recognition of Allan Long, a prominent New Zealand Squash Administrator. Teams are made up of up to six players (four play each tie), male or female of any grade, who are all members of the same club and aged 35 or over. Clubs play ties against each other in round-robin or knockout format to decide the winner. There are divisions to suit all levels of play.
